Happenings in and Around Bellevue

Donald MacKay and family left on Monday night for Breslau.

Robert Connolly has returned from a visit to Pincher Creek.

Dr. MacKenzie is leaving a wing added to the hospital building.

The warehouse being erected by Steve Humble is nearing completion.

Vice-president Jones, of the U.
M. W. of A. was in the camp on business this week.

Miss Mary Bosby was down from Lundbreck visiting her parents over the week end.

Thor Bradley, driver-boss in the mine, has resigned his position and will leave these parts.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Goodwin gave an At Home to many of their friends on Thursday evening.

There is splendid skating on the lake and the younger life of Bellevue are taking every advantage.

Edward Bridge has taken over the position formerly held by Donald MacKay as pit boss of No.
1 mine.

Michael Kilday and family left on Sunday evening for Rosedale Creek, where they will settle on a homestead.

Master George Shearer gave a birthday party on Friday, and many of his young friends spent an enjoyable evening.

Mr. Miller, sr, father of Walter Miller, who has been visiting here for about two months, left for England on Saturday evening.

The ladies of the Methodist church are making preparations for a sale of work to take place in the socialist hall on Tuesday, December 17th.

The second annual memorial service for the victims of the Bellevue mine disaster will be held in the Socialist hall on the afternoon of Sunday, December 8th.

We are pleased to hear that the condition of Wallace Raynor is rapidly improving. He is staying with his brother, Jack, at Cranbrook, and we look for him back in the near future.

It is proposed to organize a debating society in Bellevue and a meeting is called for Thursday night in the church for that purpose. All interested are urged to attend.

Rev. W. H. Irwin returned on Saturday from a trip to Toronto and other eastern points, where he had been visiting in the interests of the Methodist work in the Crows' Nest Pass.

The meeting of Local 431, U.M.
W. of A. will henceforth be held on the first, third and fifth Monday nights in the month, to commence at 7.30 p.m., instead of Sunday mornings as formerly.

The Leap Year dance given by the ladies in the socialist hall on Hallowe'en night was a big success.
Men were admitted free, and of course they were all there. The charge placed upon ladies did not keep them away. The Bellevue orchestra supplied music.

Bellevue mine was closed down for two days last week over a dispute between Local 431 and the mine management over the discharge of two men because of a dispute which they had with one of the fire-bosses. After a conference between the officials on both sides, the dispute was amicably settled and work was resumed on Saturday morning.

The boys of the town celebrated Hallowe'en by making themselves, as usual, a general nuisance, and they are able to take lots of fun out of that fact, which goes to show that still boys will be boys.

Many a good housewife who found her clothes line down or outhouse dumped the next morning took comfort in the fact that perhaps "when we become men we will put away childish things."

At the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium the night of Wednesday, November 20th, for which a large number of invitations are being sent out.

The work of preparing the rink for the approaching season has commenced. Frank hopes to be able to boast of the best rink and hockey team in the Crows' Nest Pass this season, and they're not thanking through their hats.

A large congregation attended the Methodist church on Sunday night last to hear the Rev. W. T.
Young's discourse on "Do we have a religious attitude suddenly, or do we grow into it?" At the close of the service an interesting discussion took place.

There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
My children were all sick with whooping cough. One was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A.
Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For

A branch of Department of Extension of Alberta University was organized in Frank on Tuesday night. Rev. W. T. Young was elected president, H. D. Mackay, secretary, and Messrs. E. Atchison, S. Patton and F. Allot as committee. Both this branch and the existing rink will be conducted by Young Men's Club. The subject for debate at the first regular meeting on Thursday night next will be "Woman Suffrage," and a good time is expected.

Coleman Notes

The Lord Bishop of Calgary will be in Coleman on Sunday next and administer the sacrament of confirmation at the 11 a.m. service at St. Albin's church. His Lordship will also preach at night service.

A pretty wedding took place on Saturday evening last, when Thomas Boyle and Mrs. H. Green-well were made jaddle through life together. Rev. T. M. Murray fastened the knot securely.

Work on the new parish hall in connection with St. Albin's church is progressing well under the supervision of the rector, Rev. D. W.
Kings-Jones. It is hoped to have the building ready for use as a reading room, etc. by the end of the year.

Is your husband cross? An irritable, fault finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently cured of stomach trouble by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For sale by all

A Double Deception.

Women Are Not the Only
Admits at the Game.

By CORA D. ROGERS.

Young Albert Caldwell while studying medicine in Paris received a letter from his mother containing the following information and instructions: Caldwell's father had been engaged in a real estate speculation with John Armstrong. Together they bought a tract of land, which they intended to lay out as a suburban residence park. They had got very much taken up in their affairs when Armstrong died. Then Caldwell sold his estate into the chance courts, making a worse tangle than before, for he left his property to his daughter in trust till she should be twenty-one years of age.

The next complication was the death of Caldwell's wife, the result of a crueling from certain securities he possessed to his wife and his real estate to his son, Albert. The suburban property could not be developed till Miss Anita Armstrong became of age.

and preparations were being made to start another park near by, which would render the first useless. Mrs. Caldwell wrote her son that she had agreed that this could be done by a union of the two estates. The two had agreed that this could be done by a marriage between Albert Caldwell and Anita Armstrong. An agreement had been made on the part of the widow that Mrs. Caldwell should remain in Paris, and her son, then, get a Paris, and Mrs. Armstrong should suggest it to her daughter, who was traveling with a party of Americans in Italy. Miss Armstrong had been advised of the matter and had agreed to the marriage. Mrs. Caldwell had been staying at the hotel on Lake Thun. Mrs. Armstrong closed her letter to her son with a recommendation that the young lady there that they might become acquainted with him.

Miss Armstrong, with a chaperon and a friend, Miss Ethel Turnier, arrived at the Hotel G. located on Lake Thun, when she received a letter from Caldwell saying that he would be with her in three days. At the expiration of three days, Mrs. Caldwell was at the hotel who registered his name as Devereux Boyle. Mr. Boyle, after getting settled, sent his card to Miss Armstrong with a note of introduction from Caldwell stating that he would be at the hotel for three days. Boyle had a very winning way with him that was especially enhanced by his smile and a pair of frank, honest blue eyes. He had not been in Miss Armstrong's room when she whaled that he was the man she wanted to meet with a view to marriage. Miss Turnier noticed the attraction the couple had for each other and, knowing that her friend's interests lay in another direction, saw that the plan was liable to be spoiled. Indeed, she wondered that Caldwell had given so attractive man an introduction to a girl he was to meet with a view to marrying himself.

One morning Boyle received a telegram and told Miss Armstrong that it was an announcement from his friend Caldwell that he would be with them in three days. Boyle had a talk with Miss Turnier, told Mr. Boyle that since they had not met Mr. Caldwell it would be a good joke to introduce Miss Turnier to him as Miss Armstrong. Boyle fell in with the plan, though he said he feared Caldwell would never forgive him when he discovered that Boyle had been a party to the deception. Since the girls had become known in their proper identity where they were, it was decided that the party remove to Interlaken, at the other end of the lake. So, picking up the trunks, they took boat for the latter place, leaving word for Caldwell of their new location.

When Caldwell arrived at Interlaken and sent his card to Miss Armstrong, Miss Turnier was delighted to meet him. She played her part very well, though it was not a difficult one. Caldwell said nothing about the object of their meeting; he spoke only of getting an outing after a year's hard work at Paris. Then he sent his estate into the chance courts, making a worse tangle than before, for he left his property to his daughter in trust till she should be twenty-one years of age.

The next complication was the death of Caldwell's wife, the result of a crueling from certain securities he possessed to his wife and his real estate to his son, Albert. The suburban property could not be developed till Miss Anita Armstrong became of age.

Mrs. Caldwell took the letter to Mrs. Armstrong, who read it without comment, but with a frown. Then she told Mrs. Caldwell she feared Albert was overengaged for his wife, and nothing more. This was the friend of Alberta's a Mr. Boyle, was of their party, and it was evident from her enthusiasm concerning him that he was a dangerous rival. While Devereux Boyle was referred to as being deplorable, Boyle and Caldwell were scarcely referred to at all.

Meanwhile matters were going on swimmingly at Interlaken. One day the real Miss Armstrong met at the Kurhaus a lady who knew her. Fortunately the meeting occurred without any of the former's party overheard. Boyle was a tall, thin, dark man, and his voice was very clear and distinct. Since his voice, however, and her enunciation was clear and distinct.

"What did you see, love? Speak!"

"When I came in I saw you setting the clock an hour forward!"

She could not deny it. Her affection was not bore proof. This was the beginning of the end.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Hard Read to Travel.—To add to Boyle's disappointment in losing his way, he had now been brought to a standstill by the absolute impassability of the highway, and his temper, already sorely tried, finally gave way.

"What kind of people are you up here? This olden state?" he cried, addressing an old countryman, who stood close by inspecting his stranded car with curious eyes.

"I dunno," said the old man. "Baout the same ez most folks, I cal'late."

"Do you call this scat on the face of the earth?" Boyle asked, his temper again sorely tried.

"Not of I knows on," returned the old man. "This here ha'nt the pike; it's Mo'le Whistle's trout stream run dry. I wondered what ya was drivin' up it fer."—Harper's Weekly.

Child Love.—Welcome to the parents the puny stranger, strong in his weakness, his little arms more irresistible than the soldier's. His lips touched with persuasion which Chatham and Pericles in much more eloquent and tested language when he lifted up his voice on high, or more beautiful, the sobbing child, the face all liquid grief, as he tries to alleviate his sorrows, all hearts to pity and to misrule and clamorous compassion.—Emerson.

Cold Wave.—Nellie—They say moustaches are coming back. Manlie—Do you care? Nellie—Certainly. I think most men look much more handsome and knightly with them. Manlie—Well, of course, you and the same. I have had deceived me by passing yourself off as him.

"Will you be as kind to me as your friend?"

"Certainly. I am safe in promising that."

"Then we are engaged."

"How do you make that out?"

"He has proposed and been accepted."

HOW THE EARTH DRIED.

And Why the Drying Up Process is Constantly Going On.

When water is decomposed by radium or by ultra violet rays it produces hydrogen and peroxide of hydrogen, and it does not give oxygen. Electrolytic decomposition forms oxygen.

A German investigator bases a new theory relating to the drying of the earth on the fact that one form of decomposition produces oxygen, while the other does not. Part of the water is decomposed by the ultra violet rays of the sun. The hydrogen formed rises toward the high atmospheric strata, and all the water does not return to the earth. This is, however, the case with water in the sea, the water in the ocean is always diminishing, and the earth is becoming gradually drier.

To cite one example: On the north side of the Alps occurs a continual falling off in the depth of the lake in the depth of the canyons of the Alps. Two hundred and fifty years ago there were 148 lakes in the canyons of the Alps. Today there are seventy-six. The destruction of the forests and the cultivation of the land partially explain this, but the theory is an important factor. The hydrogen accumulated in the higher atmosphere is diffused in interstellar space.—Harper's Weekly.

REPORTED THE WEDDING.

The Dramatic Critic Got the Job and Did the Best He Could.

In the absence of the regular society reporter the dramatic critic of the Daily Dolings was detailed to cover a wedding. "I'll do the best I can," said, "but I feel sure I shall make a mess of it."

This is what he turned in, omitting the preliminary remarks about the size of the house and the delay in beginning the performance:

"Mr. Barker, in the role of the bridegroom, acted the part in a stiff yet lifelike manner. His movements were graceful, but more the effect of a total lack of animation and an almost inaudible voice. Miss Perkins, as the bride, was more bewilderment, yet true to life. If one may venture to criticize, the effort to overact was evident. She sang from first to last with too evident signs in voice, however, and her enunciation was clear and distinct.

"It must be pointed out that both Miss Perkins and Mr. Barker were dependent in their lines and had to be present at all social occasions," said Rev. Henry Harper, who, as the officiating clergyman, was decidedly the star of the performance.—New York Press.

Homelockness Spells Photograph.—A young man who had sold his New York relatives, that the photographer was unprofessionally disconcerted. For three successive days he refused to take Aunt Maria's photograph. On the fourth day he told why.

"In justice to her," he said, "I do not want to be a bore, but I am a bore to some people."

"You have do you?" asked the young man.

"What did you see, love? Speak!"

"When I came in I saw you setting the clock an hour forward!"

She could not deny it. Her affection was not bore proof. This was the beginning of the end.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It is up to the sport-loving community to support and encourage the hockey team.
It is generally the closest rivalry who sees the team's luckings, while the staunchest supporters pride most in their efforts.

Complaints about the present light system of east Blairmore are now in order, and the chairman of the light committee is puzzled to know which is easier, to keep check of the hours the lights are on, or the hours they are off. Anyway, subscribers are paying for and entitled to a better service.

An attempt to boycott certain travelling opera companies through Alberta and B. C. is the latest matter to come to the knowledge of theatregoers, and thus such a feeling towards the producers of high-class educational entertainments exists it is really to be regretted. It is hoped that parties to such a movement will see the error of their ways very soon, and that no barrier will be placed in the way of the travelling opera companies, since it is a fact that very few of the smaller towns of the provinces can produce the necessary local talent.

Printers' PI

The make-up man in a rural weekly newspaper office got full of hard cider a fortnight ago and mixed up its "reporting" an auction sale and a wedding ceremony. The description ran as follows:

"Charlie Blank is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blank, who was disposed of at public auction to Margaret Dash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dash, of lot four, sixth concession, in the presence of eighty guests, including two miles and nine hundred horned cattle. Rev. J. Binks officiated the nuptial knot, averaging 1,200 pounds on the hoof."

The beautiful home of the bride was very tastefully decorated with one set of harness, nearly new; and before the ceremony Mendelssohn's wedding mass was given by twenty-one five year old milch cows, looking perfectly charming in a light spring wagon, top buggy, open buggy and wheelbarrow. The groom is a well-known young man, popular in society circles of about thirty eight Berkshire hogs, while the bride is an accomplished and talented teacher of a drive of Poland chub sheep, pedigree furnished if desired.

Grades III, and IV.—Number enrolled 47; aggregate attendance 9304; average attendance 42.93; percentage of attendance 89.97;
lates, 15. Miss K. B. Darrach, teacher.

Grades V, VI, and VII.—Number enrolled 34; average attendance
32.07; percentage of attendance
94.82; lates 10. Miss E. M.
Fulton, teacher.

Grades VIII, IX, and X.—Number enrolled 14; aggregate attendance 13.47; percentage of attendance 93.84; lates 15.

It will be seen that not one of the rooms has succeeded in winning the half holiday for November, while in three rooms the percentage of attendance has gone below ninety-one, which is the standard required by the department. We would again urge upon parents the advisability of seeing that their children attend regularly and punctually.

Allen Players

Well Received

The Allen Players filled a three-rings' engagement at the Blair-more opera house last week, and without any exception their bills were the very best ever produced before a Pass audience. Their production of "The Girl from Texas" on Thursday night involved all that was possible in talent, and all the different characters performed excellent work.

On Friday the bill, "Neil Gwynne" was put on. In this Miss Fulton proved at her best and the entire production was of the very highest character.

"Whose Baby are You?" drew a crowded house on Saturday night and needless to say no one left the theatre at all displease for their attendance. The entire audience were kept in raptures from beginning to end, and especially good were the impersonations of Mrs. P. R. Allen, Miss Fulton, Miss Hudars and Walter Myton, and the display of babies, all hairs to Blairmore, was unique.

The Allen Players carry with them the Royal Hungarian String Quartette, and their musical accomplishment is indeed worth the admission. Every one who attended the different shows speak in highest terms of the plays and the musical accompaniment and when the Allen Players make their next visit here in January or February next, they can be assured of bumper houses.

THE VINDICATOR, FRANK, 'ALBERTA',

PILE IN THE PILLS.

Samuel Jessup Swallowed 226,834 In Twenty Years.

People were greatly addicted to medicine 100 years ago, and a case that was tried in 1817 in England gives some idea of the pill taking propensity of those then apothecaries. One Samuel Jessup took 226,834 of a long standing account. The bill extended to fifty-five closely written columns and showed that in twenty years he took 226,834 pills, beginning with the modest number of twenty-nine a day and advancing by easy steps to 1000 a day in his last year, 1808. During the same period he consumed 40,000 bottles of fixtures, besides juleps, electuaries and other infallible specifics. The apothecary won the day, but Jessup died soon afterward at the age of sixty-five, no doubt from his self imposed diet.

In the advertisement of their wares the eighteenth century quack medical proprietors were quite as resourceful as the modern representatives of their craft. Newberry, the proprietor of "Dr. James' Powders," was a public speaker and a traveling lecturer, a branch of his business helping the other by inducing his audience—including Goldsmith—to scatter references to the powders throughout the pages of their books.

Thus, in "Gold's Two Shoes" he relates his father's "united miseries" because so unfortunate as to be "sewed with a fever in a place where Dr. James' powder was not to be had."—Chicago News.

PRICKLY PEAR.

Eat Them as Indians Do If You Like Their Peeling Flavor.

Nothing is more interesting than how to eat a prickly pear. The fruit grows on the edge of a thick green leaf and bristles with myriad of closely set thorns, sharp as needles and fine as hairs. Though they cannot be seen with the naked eye, they can certainly be felt, as any person who has ever tried to peel them by picking them with a pocket handkerchief can testify. The fine thorns penetrate the fingers, and the fleshy swells, festers, becomes inflamed and, if neglected, often develops into a serious case of blood poisoning.

When an Indian wants to eat it he cuts a small stick, sharpens it and thrusts the point into the ripe fruit. Slicing off the skin with a sharp knife and holding it on the stick, he peels it, taking care to avoid touching the rind with his fingers. He drops the peel on the ground to the bitter sorrow of any barefoot boy who happens to step on it.

A licking for cactus fruit may be acquired, but the taste for olives, but it is not likely to rival the cantaloupe or even the watermelon.

It is recommended cracked walnut shells moistened with water, mixed with sandust and cork and sprinkled with brown sugar, a little lemon juice and a dash of quinine. Any one who tastes it once is satisfied to let the Indian have the entire crop.—New York Press.

Let us try to be sensible. Let us try to be good natured. Let us try to be fair.—Charles Dickens

It is Not Enough.

"I think," said the young statesman, "that some of my speeches will be recalled with interest in years to come."

"They will," replied Senator Sargent, "unless you are exceptionally lucky."—Washington Star.

String Him Up.

Misionary—Why do you look at me so intently?

Cannibal—I am the food inspector.—Buffalo Commercial.

Why Should I Use Cuticura Soap?

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair live and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. 748, Boston, U. S. A., for a liberal sample, together with a thirty-two page book on the skin and hair.

Sheep Eat Sheep.

Even the sheep at the antipodes have "developed the carnivorous habit," according to a Melbourne newspaper.

They have taken to attacking and eating each other as well as rabbits, which are still very numerous in Australia in spite of the prodigious quantities of them that are trapped, tanned and exported. So far the phenomenon of the carnivorous sheep has not been observed outside the southern district of New South Wales, but the news will doubtless soon spread.

Alligator Skins.

The alligator skin business of the world is controlled by a firm in New York, N. J., which buys 80 to 90 per cent of the alligator production. It is estimated that the firm buys about 30,000 alligator skins per year from Columbia. Lids such a ready market in the United States that they have invariably been purchased upon arrival at New York on presentation of the shipping documents even before unloading the cargo.

Woodrow Wilson Is President

New York, Nov. 6.—With the election of Woodrow Wilson to the presidency and Thos. R. Marshall to the vice presidency assured by the earlier returns tonight, the reports up to midnight gave indications that the electorate vote of the democratic candidate would pass the 300 mark. The size of the popular majority given the democratic national ticket or the states outside of Illinois that might give electoral votes to either Taft or Roosevelt were matters of conjecture at midnight. It was certain, however, that Illinois would give an overwhelming majority to Roosevelt; while the race in Pennsylvania was so close as to bring all three candidates within the range of success.

Early returns gave Wilson and Marshall "The Solid South," and the states of Connecticut, Delaware, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New York, West Va., Indiana and Missouri. As the night advanced and the returns from the west began to come in these earlier estimates were confirmed, and Montana, N. D., and New Mexico were added those that seemed certain for the democratic candidates while scattering returns from San Francisco and Los Angeles made it probable that Calif. might join the Wilson majority.

Rhode Island, also a doubtful state, in returns near midnight and based on the later votes reported, it seemed not wholly improbable that its five electoral votes would go to Wilson.

Early returns of victory to Taft in New Hampshire and Vermont were made, but the Taft pluralities dwindled as midnight approached, to a very few hundred votes in each state and seemed likely to be wiped out entirely.

The vote in Utah, as reflected in the despatches up to midnight, gave indications that the state might be carried for Taft. The vote in Pennsylvania was amazingly close, the returns from over a hundred precincts embracing over 185,000 votes giving each of the three leading presidential candidates more than 60,000 votes.

President Taft's lead in Philadelphia districts was offset by the heavy vote polled by Roosevelt and Wilson in other parts of the state.

Many surprises were shown in the returns. The New York state assembly seemed to be overwhelmingly democratic. In Illinois indications were Judge Dunn, the democratic candidate for Governor has won, notwithstanding the heavy Roosevelt plurality. Former Speaker Cannon seemed to have been defeated of reelection to congress in Illinois.

In addition to certain Roosevelt victory in Illinois, the confidential claims of Roosevelt managers that Iowa, Michigan and Kansas would fall into the Roosevelt column seemed verified by the partially completed returns at an early hour this morning (Wednesday) the returns from California were meagre but left the state in doubt between Wilson and Roosevelt.

The uncertainty of Vermont was settled by the announcement of complete vote having given a majority.

At 12.45 o'clock Wednesday, the Providence Journal concluded that state to Wilson with the close vote in New Hampshire; it seemed probable that New England entire with the exception of Vermont had gone over to the democratic column.

New York, Nov. 6.—Shortly after 11 o'clock tonight democratic national headquarters claimed the following states as certain for Wilson: Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Kentucky, North Carolina, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Wilson had 270 electoral votes.

Roosevelt had 153.

Marshall had 8.

Taft had 8.

Other states were too close to call.

Wilson's lead was 1,000,000.

Wilson's lead was 1,000,000.
